1. Utilization of Aerial Photography

25X1A9a The probability that considerable quantities of aerial photography will become available through the SAMOS program was stated by [REDACTED]. As aerial photography may increasingly become the only source of information on many areas of intelligence interest, the need to be fully informed on the various techniques for exploitation of aerial photography, especially the work done in the fields of photogrammetry and photointerpretation which could be utilized in geographic and economic analysis, was pointed out. In order that the GRA may be prepared to make the most use of aerial photography, SAMOS-derived and other, [REDACTED] was requested to prepare a report which will show the present state of development of techniques for the exploitation of aerial photography.
